

How To Use The Computer Club Forum

- Navigate to the Forum that best describes your problem or interest,
- Clicking on the Forum name, the Forum opens,
- When the Forum opens you will see a display previous of "posts" to the Forum, if any. Each Post is typically a computer problem or question...
- The Forum is supported by Mentors and Members interested in helping to resolve computer problems,
- When a support person offers a solution to your problem,
 - the reply will appear under your question,
 - all responses to a question or problem appear chronologically after the post,
 - you can elect to be notified by email when someone replies to your question or problem
- Posting to the Forum requires that you are a "registered user"
 - You may register by clicking "Register" at the upper right of this page
 - Registration is free
- If you have a computer problem and are seeking help,
 - Navigate to the Forum that is the best category for your problem, click on the Form name to open,
 - When the Forum opens, click "Add New Topic" from the Menu,
 - When the form displays,
 - Add a Subject,
 - Add your question or describes your problem,
 - Attach supporting documents, if applicable,
 - If you wish to be notified by email when someone responds to your post, click the icon to the right of Additional Options, place a check in the box opposite "Subscribe"
 - Click Submit
- If you are interested in seeing if other members have had a similar problem and found a solution, use the Search box upper right, type a few words that describes your problem or question, Enter
- You can print information from the Form, click the Print icon at the bottom right, and finally
- Optionally, you can subscribe to automated RSS feeds that will automatically appear in your web browser whenever anyone posts to a Forum to which you have subscribed:
 - To Subscribe to a RSS feed, click on the "orange" icon on the bottom right of the Forum
 - Click Subscribe at the top, (allow Pop Ups, if blocked) then Subscribe again,
 - Open your web browser, click on Feeds and in the list you should see the name of the feed to which you have subscribed,
 - In the future you will get an automated update in your browser whenever anyone posts to the Form to which you have subscribed

How To Use The Computer Club Forum

> > > > < < < <